of Life--Many Vessels Going Ashore. By Felegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—|By the Associated Press.] Incoming vessels are anxiously awaited for news of the great storm at sea, years is made evident by the high tides and tide last night all along the coast are com-ing in, and as the tide this morning is higher than last night, it is evident there will be an enormous loss of property.

Along the New Jersey coast the low beaches are submerged and railroad tracks injured. Thousands of spectators watched the surf, which was the wildest and highest injured. Thousands of spectators watched the surf, which was the wildest and highest known in years.

Attantic City is completely cut off from the main land, and many bathing-houses are ground into kindling wood. Several pavilions were lifted bodily from the pilings.

Reports from Coney Island show that the tide is the worst ever known there. All night long the waves dashed over the break-water. At Manhattan and Brighton Beach there was a tremendous roar. The marine railway between the two places was entirely swept away. This morning there was not a vestige left of the esplanade in front of the Manhattan Hotel, and the tide flows in and out of the basement of the building. The concourse was swept away, and communication between the east and west ends was rendered impossible.

In this city some places usually 12 feet above high water are licked by the angry waves. The bay and rivers are exceedingly turbulent, owing to high wind. Saliors say it is the greatest flood in 20 years.

The storm is believed to be right in the track of ocean steamers, and it is feared that some of them, including the City of New York and Teutonic, have suffaced. Telegraphic communication to Sandy Hook is out off. Outside the harber so rough is the wasther and so thick that boats dare not venture out.

LISON'S PEAK. PAR

were unable to feart. The West End Hetel was entirely subrierged. The water is flowing over to these shead Bay. The beach at Manhatian has been entirely washed away. Persons still there are badly frightened.

A Coney Island special says the mammoth bathing partition, belonging to the Manhatian Beach Company, was beaten down by the thundering waves. The old marine railway was carried away early today, and was taken with an awful crash over the new marine railway, fully 300 feet inland, carrying the latter away bodily, overturning and smashing cars like kinding pavilion followed with a deafening crash, and drifted with herculean force against the new bath-house, tearing part of that away. The Brighton Beach Botel is surrounded by over two feet of water. One hundred feet of lawn in front of the botel has been eaten away since last night. All will be gone before tonight. The Brighton Beach Railway is submerged. No trains are running.

DERSONAL—UNIT FELLOWS (ULT OF

The strong northwesterly gale and high tides that have been prevailing for the last two days have caused great damage along the coast of Long Island. At Rockaway Beach the tide reached an unparalleled height today. Bathing-houses were washed away and the waves broke in on the verandas of the hotels. The short stretch of railroad running between Rockaway Beach avenue and Far Rockaway was submerged. A portion of it was undermined, and trains had to be discontinued. The bridge between Arverne and Rockaway and the was carried away. All the small islands in Jamaica Bay were covered with water. Scarcely anything could be seen of Hog Island at high tide. All buildings on the island have been washed away. Fire Island and Oak Island was cut off from all communication with the main land by boat or telegraph. From the Babylon shore great waves could be seen breaking over both islands. During the afternoon it was runored that four cottages on Oak Island, occupied by families from Babylon, had been carried away. An effort was made to send a boat from Babylon to the assistance of the occupants of the cottages, but the boat was beaten back by the wind and tide. At a late hour no definite news has been received concerning their fate.

Sag Harbor was flooded. The water covered the Long Island Railroad tracks and yard. All towns along the shore report more or less damage, and all craft anchered in the harbors and bays were driven ashore and in some instances completely destroyed. Telegraph and telephone lines are down all

BUILT ON SAND. Graphic Description of the Wreck

at Coney Island.

New York, Sept. 11.—Morning—[By the Associated Press.] The Tribune, in its story of the storm at Coney Island, says:

"Those who built houses upon the sands of Coney Island mourn today the loss of preperty worth about a quarter of a million dollars. Hundreds of the ginger-bread pavillions of West Brighton have been destroyed, and the beautiful surrounding big hotels at Brighton and Manhattan Beaches have been made a scene of desolation. The highways connecting the whole series of resorts, from Norton's Point to the Oriental Hotel, are littered with wreckage of every description to a depth of several feet. boat. The beach for two miles is almost hidden by the remains of high-gabled strutures, and the outline is so oblitarated that even an old topographical friend would not recognize its features.

"The Brighton Beach racetrack might now be lessed to advantage to the New York Yacht-racing Association, as it holds plenty of water for the draught of a 30-fost cutter. In spite of the insurrection of the sea, no life has been lost, though many were in peril. The first attack of abnormal surf was made yesterday morning at high tide, though since Sunday the floodtide has come higher and higher at each period, when it was high water. At Brighton Beach yesterday at 8 a.m. enormous billows, which had grown in height all night, then spent themselves almost over the very sills of the Brighton Beach Hotel. At Eithe same time the water has pushed itself over the concourse and, pouring inland, found an inlet into the Brighton Beach racetrack. In a stream 20 feet in width the water swept into the inclosure, transforming the whole course into a lake. Trainers and stablemen had been unprepared, and the attack came so suddenly that the buildings were crumbling almost before the scores of horses could be taken to places of safety. As it was, most of the animals were simply cut loose, and those last liberated had to swim out of the newly-created pond as best they could."

ALONG THE COAST.

Fashionable Seaside Resorts Swept by the Angry Waves.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept 10.—[By the Associated Press.] A severe windstorm, accompanied by rain, has prevailed in this city and vicinity all day. The fire alarm and police, telegraph and telephone wires were prostrated all over the city, and telegraph lines throughout the State are reported to be in very bad shaps. The damaring storm which has prevailed along the Allantic Coast since Sunday still continues, and reports received here indicate that be damage to railroad lines entering Atlantic City, Cape May, Ocean City and other coast resorts is very great. Only a few early trains succeeded in getting through. The meadows near Atlantic City are covered with water, and tracks are washed away in places. Early reports of the situation were made today by railroad officials. Then the storm carried away the telegraph poles and wires, it is supposed, as all communication was cut off.

Between Seaside Park and Berkely, the railroad has been washed away, so that no trains can be run. At noon today Telegraph Operator Applegate had to travel knee deep in water from the railroad station to reach Harris's grocery store, and people are leaving as fast as they can pack up and get away. The handsome Berkely Arms, at Berkely, has been damaged and a portion of the roof carried away. People there are alarmed for their safety.

Beach Haven, Barnegat, Long Beach city, Harvey Cedars and other points on Long Beach are inundated and the railroad washed away in many places.

The Street Superintendent also submitted a general ordinance regulating plans and specifications for cement curbing, and it was referred to the Board of Public Works.

A communication was received from the Superintendent of Schools in regard to the enumeration of children. He said that the streets are so improperly numbered that it is impossible to get the correct addresses of children. He suggested an amendment of the ordinance so that there shall not be more than 100 numbers in a block. Referred to the special Committee on the Number of Streets.

The Auditor submitted the name of F. H. Teele for appointment as Deputy Auditor. The communication was received and filed.

The establishment of the grade on Bellevue avenue came up, and, after so me discussion, it was decided to allow the grade as now established to remain.

Fifth—In the matter of petition No. 601 of Philip S. Jacoby, and 603 of J. Downey Harvey, we recommend that the same be reterred back to the petitioners, to furnish this committee with more detailed information than is set forth in the petition.

Sixth—In the matter of the demand of C. E. Crowley, as returned by the Mayor, without his approval, we are of the opinion that the Mayor's position is correct, and therefore recommend that the demand be rejected and cancelled, with leave to Boyes & Crowley to introduce a new demand for the amount due them.

Seventh—Recommend that the Finance Committee be instructed to place $10,000 insurance on the furniture and fixtures and the elevator of the new City Hall.

Eighth — Recommend that John Hanlon, the contractor of the new City Hall, be requested to meet. the Finance Committee at as early a date as practicable, for the purpose of settling the matter of the insurance, which he has heretofore placed upon the new City Hall.

Ninth—Recommend that the City Attoring be instructed to at once introduce an ordinance regulating the sale

AN OFFICER'S STATEMENT. A TIMES reporter saw one of the ficers of the company last night, and he said that the allegation in the comsaid that the allegation in the complaint that the debts of the company are $225,000 is erroneous, and that the entire indebtedness, inclusive of interest, is $210,000. He also said that the embarrassment of the company is largely due to the Wicks indebtedness. When the Ostrich Farm road was consolidated with the Los Angeles County Railroad Mr. Wicks had an alleged claim of $60,000, for which he was given $60,000 in bonds. Afterward he surrendered these, and when the present issue of $240,000 in bonds was made he kept $170,000 of them as security for his $60,000 claim. Mr. Wicks was repeatedly requested to relinquish a portion of these bonds in order to assist the company in relieving itself of some of its difficulties; but he refused, claiming tion of these bonds in order to assist the company in relieving itself of some of its difficulties; but he refused, claiming that they were no longer in his possession, as he had given them to his wife. The gentleman said that the main difficulties which the road is encountering are due to the attitude of Mr. Wicks in the matter, but that it is expected that within 60 days the road will be on its feet again. The road is running its trains regularly. One train was stopped by the attachments in the afternoon, but as soon as Receiver Spilman took possession the trains were resumed, and are running on the regular schedule.

Said he to a Globe-Democrat reporter: "Since the notice of my appointment I have been very busy turning over my office in the Manitoba road to my successor. I came to Chicago a little earlier than I expected in order to transact some private business. INSURANCE MEN.

They Object to a Reduction in the They Object to a Reduction in the Fire Department.

The Los Angeles Insurance Union held quite an important meeting yesterday afternoon, in the Board of Trade rooms, to consider the matter of a contemplated reduction in the fire department by the Retrenchment Committee of the City Council. The attendance of members of the union was quite stance of the insurance men. He thought it would be foolish for the Council to take any such action. The city does not want to go back in insurance matters, as it would by retrenching on the fire department and lessening its efficiency.

G. F. McLellan offered the following preample and resolution, which were goles that the prevent fire department, while prompt and efficient, is not too large, or too well equipped to cover the large field embraced within the corporate limits; and

That any reduction in the membership, or diminution of the appropriation for the purchase of needed supplies, or change in the mode of paying the "call" men would mere; y weaken the efficiency of the department and threaten the safety of the city; be it therefore

Resolved, that the president appoint a committee of five (in addition to himself, as chairman ex-officio) to wait upon the Retrenchment Committee, and, it necessary, upon the City Council, and earnestly protest against any action adverse to the safety of the city, as regards the destruction of property by fire.

The president appointed the following committee: E. F. Spence, president of the Southern California Insurance Company; A. Haas, George A. Dobinson, George Bradbeer and Ben E. Ward.

Mr. McLellan wished to know whether the Board of Supervisors has taken further steps toward making a license for insurance agents, and the information was furnished showing that the license ordinance has been withdrawn for the present.

McLands. The second trial began yesterday in Judge Wade's court, Department No. 3 of the Superior Court, of Mrs. Mattie and J. F. McLand vs. Dr. M. Hagan, and J. F. McLand vs. Dr. M. Hagan, for $50,000 damages. This is the case, formerly tried by Judge Wade, in which the plaintiffs secured a judgment for $5000. They allege that the death of their young daughter was caused by the defend ants, who had her removed to the pesthouse in inclement weather. The girl was suffering from small tox, and, after removal from her home to the pesthouse, died there. The plaintiffs claim that it was raning at the time she was taken to the pestplaintiffs claim that it was raining at the time she was taken to the pesthouse, and that she contracted pneumonia from exposure. The tirst trial lasted five days, and, from the way it started in yesterday, it will be a long trial. The defendants are represented by Messrs. Anderson, Fitzgerald & Anderson, and the plaintiffs by Messrs. Stephens & Appel. It took some time to impanel a jury, and Mrs. McLand was on the stand nearly all the afternoon. She frequently gave way to fits of bitter crying as she was questioned about her child. She gave a history of the sickness of the girl, and her removal to the pesthouse, of her treatment there and death. The trial will be resumed this morning. Drink Together and Then Fight ith Knives and Rocks Murderer Tells His Story.

Line Martinex, a Mexican, who, for the past 26 years, has been living in and about Los Angeles county, where he was born, now lies dead in the Santa Monica morgue, having been cruelly murdered at some hour during Monday night. Juan José Piña of Tapanga also figures prominently in connection with the affair, for he is now an inmate of the County Jail here, harged with being the prime factor in

It was about 9 o'clock vesterday ning when the news of the tragedy first became public. At that hour three Americans, Miles Benson, E. R. first became public. At that hour three Americans, Miles Benson, E. R. Ketchum and A. B. Everett, drove into Santa Monica, having in custody Piūs, who was a horrible spectacle to behold, for his face was sliced open in three places, his head was gory, and the blood was trickling from a stab in his back. They hunted up Constable Dexter, and, placing Piūs in his custody, they told their distressing story. At 5 o'clock in the morning they had turned out of bed and were gazing seaward, with the idea of taking a swim, when suddenly their attention was attracted to the form of a man lying prostrate in the road. They thought at first that he was drunk, but they went over to him to make sure, and there they met with a sad surprise. The man was dead. He had evidently had a fearful struggle with his murderer, for the ground was all rent up around, and judging by the look of his head he must have been pounded with a huge rock until consciousness and life left him. By his side lay the remnants of a broken stick and two ordinary-sized pocket-knives, once closed, the other open. The open blade had evidently been used in the encounters for it was covered with blood and had not been moved since it had fallen from the hands of its wielder.

This news was at once telephoned to Los Angeles, and in response, when the 10:16 s.m. train arrived, there alighted from it Dr. Choate, Coroner Jim Meredith and an official court reporter. Arrangements had been made for conveying them to the scene of the tragedy, and in the twinkling of an eye they were off and away as fast as horse flesh could carry them. The objective point was Santa Ynez. Cañon, and therefore about six miles from the town of Santa Monica. The road is a bad one to travel, as the grades are heavy, so it was nearing midday when the rocky promontory which shields Santa Ynez was reached and rounded. There was no mistaking the place. News of any calamity always spreads like wildfire, and, although habitations in that part of the country are few and far between, there were about Ketchum and A. B. Everett, drove

The Americans who had found the body and had captured Piña said that in their opinion the murder was committed about midnight, for at that hour they heard groans, but took but little notice of them, thinking that they proceeded from some drunken Mexicans on their way to their casas. An elderly Spaniard knew both Piña and Martinez well. He said that they were old acquaintances and friends, and this somebody else corroborated by stating that the two men were drinking together in Santa Monica Caffon the previous afternoon. Another informant said that Martinez's horse had come home riderless early in the mornant said that Martinez's horse had come home riderless early in the morning, thus giving the alarm that something unusual had happened. There was very little evidence obtainable, for, although Dr. Choate announced as a result of his investigations that the deceased had met his death not by a bride hunt instru deceased had met his death not by a knife, but by some heavy blunt instrument, no weapons beyond the small knives could be found, although there were plenty of rocks on the seashore some 50 yards distant. A start was therefore made for town, and Coroner Meredith, who, with coat off, had been doing herculean labor, summoned a jury on the snet. The corpse was laden into a laghaback, the horses' heads were turned to the same and the same hack, the horses' heads were turned to same heads for town.

AT SANTA MONICA. It was a long and wearisome ride for it was impossible to return via the beach, and a trip over the cafions and mountains was therefore imperative. With such slow traveling time flew fast, and it was past 2 o'clock before the horses were clattering down the Santa Monica streets and up to Judge Twichell's official headquarters where the morgue is situated. Agaping crowd was assembled to watch the proceedings, and while the body was being laid out and the formalities arranged for the inquest, the Times man made a trip to the town lock-up for the purpose of interviewing Piña. Marshal Barretto and Constable Dexter courteously opened the prison doors, and the reporter found himself face to face with the suspected man. The prisoner proved to be a typical Mexican from top to toe, even to that profundity of waistband which is noticeable in most of the race when age overtakes them. Piña was quite willing to talk, so an interpreter was secured, to whom he told the following story:

THE PRISONER'S STATEMENT. beach, and a trip over the caffons and

THE PRISONER'S STATEMENT. "I left my home in the Tapanga early yesterday morning and rode into early resterday morning and rode into the Santa Monica Cañon. There I met Martinez, and he and I had several drinks together—in fact, we got drunk. I lay about there until somewhere about 10 o'clock in the evening, and then I started for home, riding alone, for Martinez would not accompany me. I jogged slowly along, and as I approached the Santa Ynez rocks I noticed that I was being followed by two men, one of whom I recognized as Martinez—the other I did not know. They rode up behind me, and then Martinez charged at me with an open knife and commenced slashing. I defended myself as best I could, and finally we both fell from our horses, for we were still drunk. Then an up-and-down encounter occurred, and we fought all the way from the rocks to the laguna, some 50 yards away, I cocasionally knocking him down. The last time I floared ican camp. By this I remained until morning, when I surrendered myself to two men whom I saw emerge from the tents."

At this juncture an officer arrived with the news that Piña was wanted in court, where he was accordingly conducted. By this time the whole town had heard of the murder, so the little hall of justice was crowded to overflowing, making things remarkably unpleasant, for the afternoon was warm. The proceedings opened with the arraignment of Piña, and his examination was set for Saturday next, he in the interim being committed to the County Jail without bail. Coroner Meredith then commenced his investigations, which resulted in evidence being brought out that Piña and Martinez had been drinking together during the afternoon at Pascual Marquez's place is the Santa Monica Cafion, and it was also shown, that they had quarreled there. The jury, after short deliberation, returned a verdict that "decessed, Martinez came to his death from injuries inflicted by, a blunt instrument at the hands of Juan José Piña, during a drunken quarrel."

Piña was saken to Los Angeles by Coustable Dexter on the 3:50 p.m. train, and on the way up chatted quite freely with the Times man. He said he used nothing but his hands when he was fighting with Martinez, who in addition to the knife had a big stick he plucked from a bank in riding by.

"Was Martinez alive or dead when stick he plucked from a bank in riding by.

"Was Martinez alive or dead when you left him?" was one of the questions asked.
"Alive, but lying flat on the ground," was the reply.
Piña is an old offender, and last February served 30 days in jail for disturbing the peace. He is a very tough looking citizen, and has figured in numerous difficulties. He speaks but little English, and has nothing to say to the other prisoners.

A QUEER CASE.

8. Chaffee and His $210-His A rather queer case came to the no tice of the police yesterday morning Between 9 and 10 o'clock an old gentle man named S. S. Chaffee, who has for ome time past been rooming at Mrs Prickett's house, at No. 237 Temple street, come to the police station and reported that he had been robbed. said that on Saturday night he had put self oin gold coin in his trunk, and that when he went to get it the next day the money was missing. He was positive that the had put the money in the trunk, and was equally positive that it had been taken out, as he had thoroughly searched among his effects, and it was not there. After hearing Chaffee's story, Chief Glass detailed Detectives Bowler and Wallin on the case, and they went up to the house, where they were taken to Chaffee's room, and, on the trunk being opened, the money was found in exactly the same place where Chaffee said he had placed it. The old gentleman was greatly mystified, but very glad to get his coin, and said that he could not understand how it got back. He said that there was no possibility of his being mistaken in the matter, but that, as he had not lost anything, he was perfectly willing to let the matter drop.

A TRIES reporter called on Mrs. Pricket last evening, when she said that Chaffee had claimed to have lost the money, but that it had been found. $210 in gold coin in his trunk, and that Argument in the Neagle case was Circuit Court at San Francisco, the subject of the superior jurisdiction of the Federal Court being the matter in dispute. There will be a long argument, and doubtless an able one; many interesting and abstruse points will be brought out; the whole subject of "State's right" may even be revived and argued over again; there will probably be some bad blood aroused in and out of court; the "encroachments of Federal power upon the prerogatives of the State" willeloquently and fervidly dwelt upon by counsel for the Commonwealth; the power, prerogatives and jurisdiction stoutly defended by counsel for the Government; the right and necessity of protecting members of the supreme of their duties on the soil of California will be stoutly maintained; and finally the whole controversy will be ended by decision to the effect that the United States (first person, singular number) is a Nation, and considerably bigger Ordway had a farm for sale, and this morning a nice-appearing man called on him for the alleged purpose of negotiating for its purchase. After considerable talk the stranger prevailed on Mr. Ordway to drive to Concord, where the old man was induced to draw $9500 from a bank to prove to the prospective customer that he was a induced to draw $9500 from a bank to prove to the prospective customer that he was a respectable man and able to support his title to the farm. They then started to drive back to the farm. The usual confederate was met; a game of cards was proposed and the usual performance gone through with. Mr. Ordway's objections to losing his money were silenced by the sight of a revolver and the strangers drove away.

Richard Rowe and one other man whose name was not learned.

The mine is situated one mile from Golden, and produced from 50 to 100 tons of coal per day. The men who lost their lives were at work in the bottom of the shaft 730 feet down, and were 800 feet from the shaft. The shaft runs alongside of what is known as the old Loveland mine. Yesterday morning there was fifty feet of water in the old shaft. At 6 o'clock last evening it was visited by the manager of the White Ash to determine the connection it might have with a rush of water noticed in the White Ash mine, when it was found to be dry, the water naving all passed into the shaft where the men work.

There is not the slightest hope of rescuing any of the 11 men alive, and it will require days, if not weeks, of hard work to reach their bodies.

All that could be done last night was to make arrangements to start the pumps in the morning.

Around the entrance to the mine are hundled together the widows and orphans of the victims. Occasionally one of them was transpenser the mine and pears down late the shaft upon the quell waters that have

When Washington went to the bat in the eighth inning, the score stood 9 to 7, in favor of Indianapolis, and at the end of the Senators' half of the luning, the score stood 11 to 9 in their favor. The visitors after arguing to have the game called, then refused to put the side out, but the players, according to the rules, put themselves out by running out of line. When the visitors went to the bat to complete the liming the first striker claimed he could not see the ball, and McQuade allowed the claim and called the game on account of darkness. This decision so incensed the siready excited spectators that several persons attempted to mob the umpire. For the time matters looked rather serious. LONDON, Sept. 10.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] A meeting of striking workmen was held at Tower Hill today. Tillet, one of the leaders, said he believed the mediation of Cardinal Manning would resuit in an early settlement.

Burns said the workmen of America had

He had heard enough of the organized workmen of America. The people of Melbourse have sent £1000 to the strikers.
Cardinal Manning's proposal, which is being considered by the council of the Strike Committee, is a compromise to the effect that the terms which the dock companies have already conceded are to go into operation on the 1st of November, provided the men immediately resume work.
Burns, at the mass-neeting of strikers today, asked the men whether they would accept a proposal for an increase in wages to begin in November. The strikers unanimously opposed the proposition. The directors of the dock companies resolutely adhere to the terms recently agreed to by them, by which the wages of the men are to be advanced on the 1st of January.
Burns, at tonight's conference with Cardnal Manning, affirmed that the temper of the strikers was such that it would be fullle to urse the November compromise.

The persistence of the strikers increases with the swelling of the tide of subscriptions. Heme contributions are silightly failing off, but Australia continues to pour in funds. Today £1450 was received, making a total from Australia £16,

C. K. DRANE.

The San Pedro Lumber Company's Confidential Man Leaves for Australia - The Old Story, Wine His Downfall.

For the past week or so there have been rumors aftest that C. K. Drane, the chief book-keeper and cashier of the San Pedro Lumber Company, was in a bad way financially, and that he was behind in his accounts. The rumors did not take definite shape for mors did not take dennite snape for some time, when Drane's absence from the city began to cause comment, and then it gradually leaked out that the young man was a defaulter for a large amount, and a fugitive from justice. The exact amount of his shortage could not be learned, but it is supposed to aggregate $20,000. John A. Hooper of San Francisco, the president of the company, has been in the city for several days, and experts have been at work on the books, but the examination has not been concluded, and until this is done, the figures cannot be given. Drane left Los Angeles for San Francisco, it is supposed, with the intention of taking the steamer for Australia, and it is believed that he salled for Melbourne yesterday.

A Times reporter last night called on Mr. Hooper at his rooms at the Westminster. The gentleman was considerably surprised when he found out that the defalcation was known, but freely admitted that such was the case. He said that he WAS GREATLY ASTONISHED when he first heard of it, as Drane was apparently a very quiet young man, who came out from the East with the very best recommendations, and impressed him as a thoroughly honest, trustworthy young man. In regard to the amount, Mr. Hooper said that it would be impossible to state what that would be until the experts got through with their examination, and while it was a considerable amount, nothing has been discovered as yet to warrant the statement that it would reach $20,000. He had not been to San Pedro since Saturday, but would go down today, and thought that on his return he would know definitely what the loss was. The examination was slow work, as there was a considerable period to go over, but as soon as it was concluded he would have no hesitation in giving the amount. His company, he said, would not be crippied at all, even if it went to $25,000, so that there was no cause for any concealment aboutit. Drane's position with the company was that of chief book-keeper, but he was also when he first heard of it, as Drane was for any concealment about it. Drame's position with the company was that of chief book-keeper, but he was also really the cashier, and as such had a great deal to do with the finances. In regard to what steps had been taken to effect Drame's capture, Mr. Hooper declined to talk; but it is fair to assume that every effort will be made to capture him, and bring him back for punishment.

Mr. Spancer was called upon for something under the head of new business, and responded by introducing the sewer question, and, after a short preliminary speech, moved that it be the sense of the Board of Trade that an East Side sewer system, embracing Boyle Heights, should be recommended, and acommittee appointed by the board to confer with Mr. Van Dusen and the city Engineer as to the practicability of the scheme. After considerable talk on both sides of the question, Mr. Hanley moved as a substitute that a committee be appointed to confer with the Boyle Heights Board of Trade pertaining to the East Side sewer system. The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. Neiswender then tendered his resignation as secretary of the board, and it was accepted.

A vote of thanks was then voted the secretary for his efforts in keeping the records of the board. Mr. Dyer was elected to fill the vacancy.

DIED FROM THE SHOCK.

Mrs. Kavenaugh, an invalid lady, whose husband resides at San Francisco, died at about 11 o'clock this morning at the residence of Mr. White, near Hollister avenue and Colorado street. Deceased, while driving in a buggy over a defective crossing, in company with another lady, three weeks ago, was thrown from the carriage, and in the fall received such a severe shock to her nervous system that recovery was doubtful, and the time of her death only a few days. Mr. Kavenaugh is on his way down from San Francisco, and will arrive here tomorrow. The body has been embalmed and now lies in the undertaking parlors of Lippincott & Son, ready for shipment. It is not known at this writing as to whether a suit for damages will be instituted against the Santa Fé road.

and will be warmly welcomed by our readers. Its author has had a long and extended ex-perience in artistic needlework, and in this volume she has carefully set forth the results of her study and labor in this fascinating department of art.

She has illustrated her work by means of COLORED PLATES, each one of which is made directly from the piece of embroidery which it represents. On one page of the book she shows an outline pattern of the leaves, and on the opposite page is a beautiful COLORED PLATE showing the pattern as it appears after it has been properly worked. This plate shows the exact colors that were used in doing the work, and the outline pattern is lettered and numbered, and the author gives full directions for working the colors.

THERE ARE EIGHT OF THESE COLORED PLATES, AS FOLLOWS:

Autumn Leaves,

Yellow Daisies, Golden Rod, Wild Roses,

Tulips, Morning Glories, Thistles,

Pansies.

Any lady can master the beautiful art of embroidery in colors without any other instructions than this valuable book gives. THIS WORK IS PRINTED ON HEAVY TINTED PAPER and is bound with beautifully illuminated cover. It is such a book as ordinarilly sells in book stores for $2, but because it is a volume especi needs of every household we have put the price within the reach of all.

NOTABLE HISTORICAL OF THIS DATE.

The Battle of Brandyw of Philadelphia—Prevost's astrons Defeat — Macdonou Naval Victory — One of C well's Exploits in Ireland.

When Gen. Washington learned Howe was descending the Chesaper in the fleet of his brother, he left P adelphia on the 24th of August, 1777 to meet him. When Washington reached Wilmington, Howe was land ing 18,000 men at the mouth of the Ell River, 53 miles from Philadelphia. The American force did not exceed 11,00 men, including 1800 Philadelphia mill
tia. How's objective nout was Phil
tia. How's objective nout was Phil tia. Howe's objective point was Philadelphia, and he began his march September 3d, through a country swarming with Tories. One division was led by Earl Cornwallis and another by Gen. Knyphausen. Maxwell was sent to check the enemy by an ambuscade; their march was impeded, but on the 8th the British succeeded in flanking the Americans. By a dexterous movement Washington fell back to Chad's Ford on Brandywine Creek, above Wilmington, and posted himself on the hills that skirt its eastern bank. The astonished British gave chase next morning, but found Washington barring their path to Philadelphia. Cornwallis and Knyphausen met at Kennett Square on the 10th. Sullivan was posted above to watch the forts and protect the right flank. Howe proposed to feign an attack at Chad's Ford, while Cornwallis crossed higher up the river. Washington ordered Sullivan to hold Cornwallis at bay, while he proceeded to cut off Knyphausen. But Sullivan was imperfectly informed of Cornwallis's movements, and ventured to disobey orders. Before he was aware of his danger, 13,000 British veterans were upon him. The raw militia hurled back charge after charge of the British, but at length gave way, and La Fayette was wounded in an endeavor to rally the fugitives. A wheat farmer informed Washington of the disaster, and he hastened to relieve Sullivan, and checked the British pursuit. Wayne defended Chad's Ford for a time, but a flank movement forced him to daraw off, and the battle of Brandywine and Philadelphia were lost to the Americans.

Parliament. The country was comwell was sent into Ireland to reduce that island to subjection to the English Parliament. The country was composed of factions—Catholics, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, etc.—but all agreed in their hostility to the Commonwealth. It was the policy of Cromwell to strike terror into these various parties by a thunderbolt of vigorous action, and his assault upon the town of Drogheds, in which there were 3000 Royalists under Sir Arthur Ashton, with stong fortifications, afforded the opportunity. Cromwell, on September 10th, summoned the town, but was answered only by a defiance. He at once set his cannon playing on the walls, and having made some breaches, stormed the town on the following day. The garrison was quickly confined to a few points, where, with a few trifling exceptions, they were put to the sword in the evening. In his dispatch, Cromwell described the affair as a righteous judgment and a great mercy, and relates with coolness how those that were spared were shipped to Barbadoes as slaves.

J. H. Martin and J. A. Philbin.

Last night a man named Tom Johns came to the police station to prefer charges against the proprietor of the Grand Central Hotel. He said that he has been employed at the hotel under the old management, and that they had not paid him his money. Besides this, he had some clothing and a clock at the hotel, and they refused to give them to him. He was referred to a justice's court, as it was a civil matter.

George Bunch Arraigned Yesterday at Santa Monica.
George Bunch, whose capture by Constable Benedict, was recorded in yesterday's Times, was arraigned yes terday afternoon in Justice McElfresl court, in Santa Monica. He pleaded "not guilty," and his examination was set for Tuesday next. Bail was dended to the extent of $2000, which, as he was not able to give, he was committed to the County Jail. In the courtroom during the proceedings sat Feliciano Morales, a brother of the famous bandit, Sylvestro. In conversation with a TIMES man Feliciano said that his brother was at Santa Monica some of the time when the officers were after him and had told him that the reason he shot Bunch was because he (Bunch) had stolen Macha-do's horse. Machado, it will be re-membered, was the foster-father of

COMPETITION THE SOUL OF

What Man Has Done Man Can Do -What We Are Doing Can Be Done by All-Always Sell Cheaply.

PEOPLE'S STORE,

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11, 1889.

It was formerly held as an axiom "That competition was the soul of trade," now, however, it is declared that it is the ruin of trade. Such uttersuces that our competition was competition was the soul of trade," now, howover, it is declared that it is the ruin of trade.

Such utterances that our competition ruins trade has been brought to our door, by shopkeepers and storekeepers, who, as a rule, blame everything that goes wrong to the competition of the People's Store.

Whether or no we are at fault remains to be seen. Yet, if some of these higheryers would look more closely at home for a remedy it certannly could be found. Do they display the energy, the continual activity, the neverceasing application toward their business that we do toward ours; we think not, for if they did they would soon see a change in the atmosphere of eventh. From our earliest inception in business we have never lost sight of the saying, "What man has done man can do." There is no magic in our times, no underhidden mystery shrouding our methods of business, and therefore what we are doing can verily be done by all. The only thing to bear in mind is, sell cheaply, don't spoil all by tacking on profits that will make the best bought values lose the intensity of their attraction. Sell your wares as we do, with a close, sharp but telling 5 per cent, above cost, then, and not till then, will you see your storeroom filled with patrons and no time left you to decry other merchants.

CATARRH

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as cold in the head, and he often expresses his stonishment at his remarkable tendency to outract a fresh cold. Indeed he declares be sourcely free from one cold before he takes motion; and he is always exceeding in the head of the cold always seems to settle in the head of the throat.

At times many of the symptoms of catarrh.

e cold always seems to settle in the head of the throat.
At times many of the symptoms of catarrh ay seem to abate, and the patient is led to ppe that the disease is about to wear off; but other class of symptoms soon appear, and elearns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease it is somewhat changed its character, and has extended to the aroat. A sense of wearlines is sometimes bit in reading, speaking or singing, hoarseess at times occurs, a sensation of dryness is ometimes felt in the throat, or it appears hat some foreign substance, as, for instance, hair, obstructed the throat; there becomes acnse of languor and fatigue, the breath essens upon a little exertion, a short, hacker cough, a peculiar sound in olearing the shair, obstructed the throat; there becomes a conse of languor and fatigue, the breath essens upon a little exertion, a short, hacking cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the broat, a feeling as though there was not room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a lime when consumption is about to begin its dreadful work. Up to this point the progress of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may, in expressing his condent hope sheatest may, in expressing his condent hope that the catarrh for years, and has not seemed to become much worse, and trusts he will "by and by" recover. But this delusion is the grand error which has peopled our cemeteries with consumptive forms, as all forms of catarrh end finally in consumption.

The great danger, however, because the most common, is that it will extend downward and affect the lungs, in most cases of pulmonary disease catarrh is present to some degree, and in many instances it causes a arge share of the patient's discomfort.

Headdes these grave consequences, all of which are liable to spring from scrotilous extarrh of excens, there are others which, if less dangerous, are sufficiently unpleasant. It occasions great unhappities to thousand; one their settlement in life. An offensive running from the nose, with foul breath, is about as great a calamity as can befail your people. Every disease of this kind can be cured by our new system of practice.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless, unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the other work but the same success. The very best reference from those already cured.
